

Exercise 1: Create an HTML page. Inside the body, create one div. Give the div width 400px and height 200px. Set a background color. Inside the div, write a paragraph with some text. Add padding of 20px to the div and change the text color of the paragraph.

Exercise 2: Create two divs one below the other. Each div should have width 300px and height 120px. Add a border to both divs. Add margin so there is space between the two divs.

Exercise 3: Create one big div with width 500px and height 300px. Give it a background color. Inside this div, create another div with width 200px and height 100px. Add margin to the inner div so it does not touch the outer div edges.

Exercise 4: Create three divs one below the other. All divs should have same width and height. Give each div a different background color. Add space between the divs using margin.

Exercise 5: Create a div with width 350px and height 150px. Add border and padding to the div. Inside the div, write a heading using h1 and a paragraph below it.

Exercise 6: Create one div. Inside it, write two paragraphs. Change the text color of both paragraphs. Add padding to the div so the text does not touch the border.

Exercise 7: Create a div with fixed width and height. Add padding of 25px. Write enough text inside the div to clearly see the padding space.

Exercise 8: Create two divs with same width, height, and background color. Add margin to the first div. Add padding to the second div. Observe the difference.

Exercise 9: Create a square div with width 300px and height 300px. Add a border. Inside it, create a smaller div with width 100px and height 100px and a different background color.

Exercise 10: Create a page using h1, p, and div tags. Put all content inside one div. Add background color, padding, and margin to that div.

Exercise 11: Create a div with width 450px and height 180px. Add padding on all sides. Inside it, write a paragraph and change its text color.

Exercise 12: Create three divs with same width and height. First div should have only margin. Second div should have only padding. Third div should have both margin and padding.

Exercise 13: Create a div with fixed width and height. Add border and background color. Inside the div, write two paragraphs and give both paragraphs different text colors.

Exercise 14: Create four div boxes. Place them one below the other. Use margin to create space between the boxes. Add border and background color to each box.

Exercise 15: Create a simple layout using only divs. Use width, height, border, background color, margin, padding, and text color wherever needed.
